I was saddened today to learn of the death of Bill Nash. I had tried unsuccessfully to reach him for the past year or so, and wanted desperately to sit down with him for a few hours and just pick his amazing brain. We had some communication over the years since he and my father sighted flying saucers over Virginia (Nash-Fortenberry sightings) and marveled at his genius, his ability to absorb details and to understand the most complex things in our universe. He was an amazing fellow a true patriot, and a man who should never be forgotten.
