My heart goes out to Rohit's family and friends. He was so helpful, kind, joyful, and extremely hardworking. I would see him studying early in the morning and working late shifts at night. More than his devotion to his work and education, he was a loyal friend. He went out of his way to cheer anyone up and act silly to make them laugh. You will be missed, dear friend.

My heartfelt condolences to the Mansinghani family. Rohit was one of the nicest people I knew. The Rohit I knew was easygoing, goofy and wanted to be friendly with everybody. When I first came to CLO, we saw each other around but never could remember each other's name because both were uncommon, so he made a very silly challenge to say each other's name whenever we saw one another. Due to this, I came to know his name and he came to know mine and we became friends. Truly, he shall be missed. May he rest in peace.
