It has been days now --- but the shock has not worn off. Sheri was so "fit" and never ill, it is hard to imagine this happening to her and her family. I worked with Sheri "forever" and attended meetings with her. I never heard a negative thing said about Sheri. Parents, students, and faculty all respected her and we must all deal with her loss. I hope that the Memorial Fund for Sheri's children receives a lot of support. With all the accolades that could be said about Sheri, she was a great mother and has wonderful children to prove it. I'm sure she is smiling down at us. Knowing that her children are being helped is the best thing we can do to honor her memory and keep her smiling. Sheri, we love you and miss you!

I was at Sheri's service and wish that I had said something, but I was so unprepared and am not good at speaking spontaneously. I am in a unique situation among her friends and colleagues. I was a classmate of hers at FGCU and have also worked with her in the Lee County School district for the past 13 years. Sheri and I were friends as students. She was a gifted, insightful, and organized student; highly committed to excellence. I was in many study groups with her and she helped me in many ways. It was a tough program and we made it through. Like Sheri I was a non-traditional student. I had young children and was returning to school to complete my degree. Sheri was smart and an excellent therapist. But her world was her children. Working in the school system allowed her to have a rewarding career. It also granted her the time to devote to her children. The children meant the world to her. I did not share schools with her, so my time with her was limited to meetings, but we remained friendly through the years. Anecdotes about her kids were the subject of our musings. So I am hoping that their mother's love sustains her daughter and son. No one could have loved them more. I am so sorry for the loss of their loving mother. And pray that the children find peace and love through their community and family. Their mother would want them to be happy.

Sheri would always come into meetings with a smile, she was always positive, and we always found time for a joke and a good laugh after a long day of meetings. You will be greatly missed by so many students, co-workers, friends, and family. It will be difficult and so sad without your presence but we always continue to remember your positive spirit. Praying for your family.

My heart is saddened to hear of a loss of a wonderful woman/wife/mother. Sometimes it's difficult to understand WHY. Sometimes we aren't supposed to know WHY. It's the loss inside that makes us search for reasons. Instead let's celebrate Sheri's life. Let's focus on the positive difference she made in this world. Let's think her ability to bring joy into lives. Though we have a loss here on earth, there is an angel in heaven. Praying for the family and many friends. Special prayers for Madi and Blake as well as her husband.
