I have been friends with Pat since 1988. She had just lost her husband and had two small children. She was fragile but strong, unsure but resilient, sad yet happy. After I married my husband Lenny and moved to Florida, she soon moved to Cape Coral and we became closer even though we didn't see each other often. I had my share of health issues and Pat was always there to support me. She came with me to try on wigs before I went for my first chemo treatment. We had a blast! When I was scheduled for another surgery that would take 10 hours, she drove to St Pete Beach and stayed with my husband Lenny the entire time. This is Pat. She loved me, and she loved Lenny. And she loved her children. All of them. Even the ones she didn't have to suffer the pain of childbirth for! When I met Pat, she talked about having grandchildren! Even then. I am a better person because of Pat. Lenny is a better person because of Pat. Everyone who has had the honor of being in the presence of Pat is a better person. She was taken far too soon. RIP

There isn't much one can say to ease your sense of loss, but I want you and your family to know my thoughts are with you in this time of sorrow. Heartfelt sympathy and much love to you and your family as you go through this time of grief. It will be very very hard to go on without Pat, but just look forward to the day you will meet again in eternity. Let me know if I can do anything, anything at all.
