How do you put into words the importance of a best friend? The past, present, and future that we have shared? All the stories that we've told to one another, through the laughter and the tears. Knowing that there is no place for judgement because our feelings are so dear. I am sad that you have gone before, leaving us behind, but glad that you are finally at peace. Rejoice in Heaven dear friend! Celebrate with your loved ones, until we meet again!
