I miss you more than ever bro. There isn't a day that goes by that I don't think of you. A lot has happened since you have passed some good and some not so good. It seems like I'm either up or down but lately it's been more down. Seems like family is drifting further and further apart without you here. Every time I look to the heavens whether its night day sunny or rainy I always think of you up there. Take care Jay. Love always Erik.

Hi Jay, Sorry that it has been some time since I last wrote you. My mom past away in March and I also lost my job in March. March wasn't a good month for me. I still can't believe it has been 2 years since your passing and it still hasn't gotten any easier for me. I miss you more than anything. I actually took your passing much harder than when my mom passed away. Some might think that is wrong or a little crazy, but to hell with them. I still think about you every day. I miss you so much, Jay. I will write to you soon. Love you always.

Hey Jay, I'm sitting here at my computer at work trying to figure out what to say, so I'm just typing this out as I'm thinking. I'm not good at thinking of things to say when it comes to typing. But anyhow, I know today is your 32nd birthday and I wanted to wish you happy birthday from where ever you are. You know that I'm not much of a religious person, especially after what happened, but I wanted to wish you a happy one anyway. I love you very much with all my heart and being and I think about you every day. I love you so much Jay and miss you always. You will always be a part of my life, even in death! Hi Jay, It's Marty! I can't believe it has been a year since your passing. I need to say I'm sorry for not wishing you a Happy 31st last year, but it has been very difficult for me dealing with your passing. But if you were watching me and I know that you were, you know exactly where I was on your birthday, both places. I hope you can forgive me. You know that I love you and I think about you all the time. I just can't stop thinking about you Jay. I feel that half my heart is missing and I will never heal from this. I've been so depressed the last year. I feel sad, angry, lonely, alone. I'm hurting Jay and I don't know how to deal with this. You are someone very special and dear to me and your passing has left me lost and empty. I wish you were still here with me, so we could hang down at the pool and talk for hours on end like we used to. I miss those nights. Nights I will never have again. I need to try and get on a happier note. So, I'm working again at Team Title where I used to work some years ago. Working as a Title Examiner again, yeah, what fun!! Had to put Pooh-Pooh Kitty to sleep 10 days before Christmas last year and mom is in Home Hospice. Other than that I don't do much of anything. My friend, Tara, moved 66 miles away, so I don't get to see her that often, maybe, 2 or 3 times a year. I still talk with my friend Bill Smallwood (no relation, believe it or not) up in Michigan. That's about all I do. I still love you Jay and miss you more than I've ever missed anyone in my life. I will always think of you and miss you with all my heart. Forever and for always! I love you, Jay.

My prayers go out to the Martin family and all who knew Jay. I'm so sorry I didn't get to see you often, it's been so long since I have. You were a good friend to my sister Stamatia Kremetis and to a lot of other people including me. I wish I got the chance to say bye my friend. You walk with Angels now, looking over us as once your ancestors did. I know I haven't seen the rest of the family in a while, but you're all in my prayers. Your son was a great pleasure to be around, just know God is with him, and that he is in a better place. May he rest in peace.
