I posted this with our high school group: Not many people remember Judi, she left in the middle of senior year. She was a good friend of mine. She moved to New York to pursue modeling, moved to Florida, where she met her husband. I Spoke to her recently and despite her advanced cancer, was still working in the oncology/hospice program, promoting strength and faith in recovery. She refused to cover her bald head with a wig or scarf. We planned to meet for a 'girl's weekend', but I hadn't heard from her in a while and so I checked the obituaries. There she was. She was that tall red head who was as outrageous as we all wished we could be!!! I will miss her. Vern and Dustin, my heart goes out to you.
