James Elicone

FEB 11, 2023

James (Jim) Elicone of Bonita Springs, FL, formerly of Danville, NH and East Boston, MA passed away on February 11, 2023 at age 71.

Beloved son of his late parents, Marcello and Laura Elicone, loved by his late grandparents, and late and living aunts and uncles. Dear brother of Marcella (Marcy) Elicone Smith & husband Alan Smith, Joseph Elicone and Lorraine Curry. Loving uncle to his nieces and nephews. Cherished by many cousins, family members, friends and business associates.

Jimmy had many professions throughout his life. In his younger days, he worked at Fenway Park and Boston Garden. In later life, he was a well-established business professional and entrepreneur. He loved Ballroom Dancing, Las Vegas, The New England Patriots and Fox News!

My late father, Bill Luongo, was friends with Jim and also worked for him for a period of time at his gun shop in Stoneham. Even before he worked there, when I was a teenager, we'd visit his shop quite often. Jim would let me buy whatever Mag-Lite flashlight I wanted from his store, for only what he paid for it from the factory. He was very generous. I was very young when I knew him, but he was a good man, and fun and funny. Not long after my father moved to Danville, Jim and his then-girlfriend Beth moved to Danville as well, and they'd sometimes all carpool to work together. He and my father somehow lost touch over the years after Jim moved to Florida, but my father always remembered Jim and always spoke well of him. I know they did talk on the phone once at some point. I'm sorry to hear of Jim's passing, and hopefully his family and friends will see this message and know that he is not forgotten. Chris Luongo, Danville NH, formerly of Malden MA

I am just now learning of Jim's passing. We were best friends years ago when Jim was in the coin business in the boston area. We were each others best man in our respective weddings over 40 years ago. We touched base when he was in New England only on occasion in recent years. We shared a lot of good times back in the day. Rest in peace you will be missed, gone but not forgotten. Tom Caldwell
